Dear Dr Hughes,

I was pleased and encouraged to hear that you may have been involved in the research being proposed for Meditel's Dispatches programme on antibody testing.

I am very glad to be working with Joan Shenton in this project, and thought you might like to see the enclosed magazine which I edit, deconstructing AIDS and promoting scientific and lifestyle questions in the interests of the well-being of those affected by the current unsustainable paradigm.

We are taking great care with the protocol of the research to ensure the rights of participants and the reliability of the science. It is disappointing that you seem to have felt it inappropriate to join us further. I suppose there seem to be unavoidable reasons for this! But I trust these magazines will offer insights into the work of this organisation and the worldwide progress in these important matters.

With good wishes for the success of your work.

Yours sincerely,

Huw Christie
